Tenth—T. J. Wells, Morgan.
Eleventh—Henry Bauechamp, Metcalfe.Dr. Clardy has been in Henderson county this week making a canvass of the county. That county is likely to go for him on August 1st, unless his interests are outbid in this county to-morrow by the supporters of Judge Bishop. Bishop's managers boast that they have had a number of canvassers scouring the county for several days "fixing things" for their man and that their plans are all laid to carry twenty or more precincts.
The people however may conclude not to be controlled by these whip pers.The Bowling Green Times issued a sixteen-page special edition last week that was one of the handsomest and most complete illustrated trade papers ever sent out from a Kentucky newspaper office. About 140 portraits of well known citizens of Bowling Green were given and creditable writings added to the general interest.
Book paper was used and the printing was especially well executed.
Messrs. Ringo & Lewis, and Mr.
Masch who got out the paper, deserve much credit for the success of the undertaking.The chances of Judge Yeaman to carry Christian county must indeed be very slim when Editor Meacham, of the Kentuckian, appeals to the Knights of Pythias to support the Henderson county man in preference to Judge Bishop. Such tricks as using a secret order in politics should be below Mr. Meacham—Paducah Standard.Mr. Meacham has made no such appeal to any voter in any county.
If the Standard knew what methods have been resorted to in this county in the interest of Judge Bishop it would not embarrass his friends by speaking of "tricks."The Courier-Journal quotes Henry Burnett, of Paducah, as follows:
"I have no hesitation in saying that I shall not vote for the Chicago ticket.
It is needless to go into details; every sound-money Democrat knows what are the objections to that ticket and platform."The report reached this city some time ago that Mr. Burnett had returned to the Democratic party, but it seems he has decided to repent his performance of last year.At this stage of the campaign believe nothing you may be told about Judge Yeaman by his enemies. He is not in the county and cannot defend himself against misrepresentations.Vote for Yeaman to-morrow and help your candidate for CongressThe most prominent member of the Henderson Bar for a considerable number of years, possessing a keen insight to everything judicial, being a man of exceptionally temperate habits and good morals, with an inborn ability to judge between right and wrong, a feeling for mankind in general that amounts to nothing less than philanthropy, a Democrat tried and true, in its broadest sense, and as such believing that the majority should govern, he is better qualified for the duties of the office which he seeks than any other man in the district. Mr. Yeaman has a natural antipathy for professional politics, and this fact always has been the stumbling block which has withheld his name so long, and prevented the people from placing him in a position of trust.Henderson, his home town, is justly proud of this man. Where he is best known, there are to be found his best friends and staunchest supporters. Henderson county is for him to a man, and in every adjacent county his admirers are far in the majority. A recent canvass of them shows that his strength and popularity is daily growing. In the counties somewhat removed he will be a winner, although not with the ease that will mark his victory at home.Personally, Mr. Yeaman is a most affable and attractive gentleman, a good conversationalist with a pleasiful supply of wit, tinged by a very pleasant supply of humor, a kindly disposition, generous and forgiving nature, and one with whom it is easy to make friends.Should he be elected, and we have not the slightest fear but that he will, we say positively that no one will ever have cause to regret the vote cast for him.—Fulton Guard.Judge Yeaman has gained much ground this week in Christian county, and will enter the conventions tomorrow with every prospect of success. Dr. Clardy's friends have at last seen the danger to our county candidate and many of them have dropped Bishop like a hot potato.Yeaman's friends in Trigg county, including many who hold dear the memory of the lamented Judge Greene, who was saved from defeat by Judge Yeaman's county, are claiming that county for him with such confidence that the Bishop men are thoroughly alarmed. Trigg is a very doubtful county.Every friend of Dr. Clardy's in Christian county should go to the convention to-morrow and vote against the scheme to injure Clardy by taking this county away from Yeaman.
Vote for Yeaman and Henderson will vote for Clardy.We see no reason to alter the opinion we have heretofore expressed that Judge Yeaman will carry Christian county to-morrow by a two-thirds majority. Encouraging reports are coming in from all parts of the county.Hoke Smith's paper, the Atlanta Journal, has come out for Bryan and Sewall and President Cleveland is threatening to turn him out of the Cabinet if Washington gossips are to be believed.Messrs. Yeaman & Lockett were seen losers in the Henderson fire Sunday night. Their library and office fixtures were valued at $4,000 and the insurance was only $700. The loss was total.Twenty-eight conventions in as many precincts will be held in Christian county to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Don't fail to go to your usual voting place and vote for Judge Yeaman.Z. C. Simmons, the wealthiest man in Southern Wisconsin, has declared in favor of Bryan and Sewall. He has always been a Republican.Judge Yeaman is making a strong fight in Lyon county and either Yes-man or White will carry that county.
Judge Bishop is a very poor third in the race.Elections will be held in four Southern States before November.
Alabama will elect a full State ticket in August; Arkansas will elect a Governor in September and Florida and Georgia will vote for Governors in October.Edward Miller, the Indiana man who murdered his wife and killed himself, left a will directing that he be buried one mile from his wife.
His directions were complied with yesterday.Woman's WorkIs never done, and it is especially wearing and wearisome to those whose blood is impure and unfit properly to tone, sus-tain, and renew the wasting of nerve, muscle and tissue. It is more because of this condition of the blood that women are run down.Tired, Weak, Nervous,

AFRICA'S TERRIBLE FLY.

History and Habits of an Insect Explorers Mold in Dread.We have been so accustomed to hear of the ravages of the tsetse fly in south Africa that definite scientific information on the subject cannot fail to be welcome, says the London Chronicle. Surgeon Maj. Bruce, at the request of the natal government, is investigating the habits, life history, etc., of this terrible cattle scourge.The fly has been well known for nearly 50 years to be in some way the cause of the disease known among the Zulus as nagana, a term signifying low or depressed in spirits. The genus to which the fly belongs is allied to the common blood-sucking stomoxys, and contains six known African species, for all which tsetse appears to serve as a common name.As showing the want of exact knowledge existing on the subject, it is stated that observers and travelers have even questioned the connection between the fly and the disease. Thus so eminent a dipterologist as Van der Wulp has concluded that the tsetse is not injurious or that its ill effects are exaggerated.From Dr. Bruce's observations it would appear that the fly is vitripo-rous, giving birth to adult larvae, a most important fact hitherto unnoticed. The disease itself, he finds, is due to the presence in the blood of an inoculated animal of a flagellated infusorian, a haematozoon furnished with a membrane, or "fin," running along one side of its body, with a flagellum at one end. The appearance of this haematozoon in the blood is signalled by a rise in temperature. The incubation period is from seven to twenty days, after which period the haematozoa may be found swimming actively among and apparently "worrying" the corpuscles, the red-blood corpuscles becoming very largely reduced in numbers. With the progress of the disease the haematozoa increase in numbers, and at the time of their host's death may amount, in the dog, to 310,000 per cubic millimeter of blood.Dr. Bruce has demonstrated that it is possible repeatedly to feed tsetse on a healthy dog without producing disease in that animal, showing that the fly possesses no specific venom, but that, if allowed to draw blood from a diseased animal or the carcass of one, they will communicate nagana to healthy animals. The disease is invariably fatal in the horse, ass and dog, but perhaps not necessarily so in cattle, in which it runs a much slower course. From preliminary experiments arsenic appears to have a marked action on nagana, causing disappearance of the haematozoa, reduction in temperature and maintenance of the red-blood corpuscles.

To Run Backwards.

The Engineer News reports that a watch with the hands moving from right to left is being made by Swiss watchmakers. "It is designed," says the News, "for the markets of Turkey, Japan and other oriental countries, where the natives read all writing in the reverse direction from that common among Western nations. There is said to be a demand for such watches, and the European maker sets a good example to many of our own manufacturers by meeting this demand and adapting its product to the customs of the native consumer."

DIES OF A BROKEN HEART.

Family Pet Stolen, But Returns to Expire at Home.

Eugene V. Debs is dead—not the labor leader who was autocrat of the big railroad strike, but a much more humble individual. Only a dog, in fact; a little short-tailed, narrow-chested specimen of caninity, which had no ancestors to speak of, yet belonged to the respectable middle class of dogdom.

Not many instances are on record where dogs have died of broken hearts, and the story of how this one pined away just because he was separated for a time from his master and mistress, is an interesting one.

At the time of his death, says the Chicago Chronicle, Eugene lived in a tiny little flat at 819 Leland avenue, Ravenswood, with Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Churchill. He was an affectionate fellow, with graceful ways and many accomplishments and was handsome in appearance. To be sure, there was a black spot right on the end of his nose, but that in a dog is simply a beauty mark, the more so as he had one to match on his back and lighter, fawn-colored blotches on his white coat distributed with the best regard for artistic effects. Eugene had been to school and could do all sorts of things that educated dogs might go through, to the edification of large audiences at the variety shows. But he was unlike these professional actors in one way. While they watch eagerly each motion of their trainer in terror of the innocent-looking but keen whip which he carries always in sight, Eugene's only inducement to go through his antics was the thought of a bun or a savory morsel of fried beefsteak to come after they were over. Sometimes he got chocolate drops. If there was anything he loved it was chocolate drops. In any case he would wag his abbreviated tail in a frantically happy manner and be ready at a moment's notice to respond to an encore, like all amateurs.

He could walk on his hind legs, sit up and beg with a look in his brown eyes that would have melted a heart of stone. He could also stand on the backs of two chairs, stretched apart a distance equal to the length of his little body. He couldn't turn somersaults, but he listened attentively to everything said to him and seemed to understand a great deal of it. So Mrs. Churchill says, and she ought to know.

Everywhere that his master and mistress went Eugene followed too. The dog would trot calmly behind, deigning once in awhile to stop and rub noses with a chance canine acquaintance, and it was during one of these trips about three weeks ago that he was stolen. Mr. Churchill advertised in the want columns of newspapers, but they were not responded to. The other day a weary, dejected-looking dog, with the far-away expression in his eyes which a tramp wears after he has walked many dusty roads, came up to the house in Leland avenue and inquired at the back door in as plain a way as a dog can whether or not any member of the family was in.

"Lord bless my soul!" exclaimed the servant to whom the question was addressed, "if that ain't Gene. Here, 'Gene! Here, 'Gene!" But Eugene would have no further dealings with the domestic, and it was only when Mrs. Churchill ran out and embraced him that a gleam of his old-time humor came into his eyes.

When Mr. Churchill came home from his business downtown the dog seemed to be overjoyed, but lacked the strength to express his feelings. He refused to eat from the time he entered his home anew. Even a pyramid of chocolate had lost its charms for him. All day, while his master was in the city, he would lie down despondently and utterly refuse to be comforted. Of course, he could not live without food, and on the third day his strength gave away altogether, and he gave up his life.

Doctors could find nothing the matter with him. It seems very clear that he only refused to take his food because his heart was not in it, and he did not care whether school kept or not or whether death was the schoolmaster. All his pretty tricks were gone, and when he died there was the most pathetic look in his eyes—such a look as can only be expressed by volumes of words, which told that his three weeks' separation from those in whom all the affections of his little body centered had wounded him to the quick. He may have thought they were in some way responsible for it. No body knows what just went through his mind.

What is said to be the largest hog ever raised in Delaware was killed a few days ago at Felton. It was of the Black Berkshire breed and was about three years old. It weighed 1,100 pounds, was seven feet four inches in length, six feet two inches around the body, four feet eight inches around the neck, and three feet four inches high at the shoulder.

We're Ahead of Columbus.

The shortest line from the old world to the new is that between Cape Verde and Brazil, and the Portuguese are producing strong testimony to show that their map makers knew of the existence of Brazil as early as 1443, or about the time Columbus was born. No one now doubts the Norse discovery of America centuries before the time of Columbus, and the Pacific coast of America was undoubtedly visited by Asiatics long before the Christian era. The Portuguese claim, the latest to be advanced, is believed by some of the best geographers to be unassailable.

A "Cozy" Corner.

For upholstering a window seat or a "corner" in a blue room nothing can be more delightful than the old-fashioned blue and white homespun spreads which a few fortunate women have inherited from their grandmothers. Against a wall hung in darker blue and piled with cushions of divers hues their effect is charming.

London Births.

In London, in the 52 weeks of the past year, there were 133,715 births, a total which falls short of the corrected average by 5,488. The deaths numbered 86,939, this being also under the average to the extent of 1,011. There was, therefore, a natural increase of population, due to excess of births over deaths, amounting to 46,776.

BOT AND COLD BATHS

THE LOST WAS FOUND.

Number Looked Strange Because the Transom Was Turned Over.

If anyone had told him he was drunk he would not have resented it, but would have made an effort to maintain his equilibrium and dignity long enough to explain that he was only a little over-zealous.

He realized that he lived at 206 Irvington street, and that his residence was on the right hand side as he was walking along home ward. The certain light of early dawn, combined with the blur in his eyes, rendered it necessary for him to stop in front of every house and grace himself against the railings until he could focus his eyesight on the number.

Finally he identified his house, but, after arguing with himself for a couple of minutes, he came to the conclusion that he was just too wooly enough to make mistakes possible, so to be absolutely certain he balanced himself against the front fence and studied the number on the transom. Instead of 206 he saw 509.

He rubbed his eyes and looked again, but the number had not changed. It was still 509. Then he wondered how it happened that he had got on the wrong side of the street and three blocks too far out, made a zigzag across the street and started back, but before he had walked three blocks he came to the end of the street.

The weary pilgrim was bewildered. He couldn't understand it, but, getting his directions, shaped his course out the street on the right side and kept on until he came to 509 again. He studied it from every possible point of view, even trying to stand on his head to read it, but it perversely remained 509.

Utterly bewildered, he sat down on the steps, and waited until a police man came along.

"I'm lost," he explained. "I wanted to go to 206 Irvington street."

"This is the place right here," declared the officer.

"Can't be. This is 509."

"No, it ain't; it's 206, but the transom is turned over."

The lost was found.—San Francisco Post.

GREATEST IN HISTORY.

The Chicago Fire of 1871 Said to

Have No Equal.

The Chicago fire of 1871, whether considered with regard to the area of land covered, the number of lives lost, or the value of the property destroyed, ranks as the greatest of history. Over 18,000 buildings were destroyed, of which 2,400 were stores, shops or factories, and about 100,000 people were rendered homeless by the burning of their houses. The district over which the conflagration swept was three and three-fourths miles in length by more than a mile wide, covering the most densely peopled portion of the city. It is said that 29 lives were lost by accidents during the progress of the fire, and the total value of the property destroyed was estimated at $132,000,000, this estimate not including for salvage on foundations and the like.

Scores of fire insurance companies were forced to the wall by this terrible calamity, their losses being so great as to drive the companies into bankruptcy. The cash contributions for the benefit of the sufferers of the Chicago fire amounted, within a month after the disaster, to $4,200,000, and the contributions in the way of supplies, food, clothing and other necessities to perhaps as much more.

Cost of Growing Wheat.

In North Dakota, Tennessee,

Arkansas, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas,

Nebraska, North and South Carolina and Georgia the cost of raising wheat is between $9.04 and $9.85. In the states of Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, Virginia, Kentucky,

West Virginia, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois,

Wisconsin, Minnesota, Colorado, Idaho,

Oregon and California the cost of raising wheat is from $10.45 to $13.83. It is a singular fact that in farming communities so widely separated by distances, so diverse in climatic conditions, and with a soil of such radically different character, the cost of raising wheat should be about the same.

One Way to "Pop."

The four-leaf clover has been considered both in England, Ireland and America as a lucky "find," the accidental lighting upon one being regarded as foretelling some good fortune to the finder. In some parts of Ireland the presentation of a four-leaf clover by a young man to a young woman is considered equivalent to "popping the question."

Had Big Ears.

Pliny tells a story of a tribe of Africans, which he says was well known in his time, the members of which had ears so large that they lay down upon one as a mattress,

NOT NECESSARILY FATAL.

Defenses One May Employ Against the Dread Consumption.

Sufferers from consumption are always present in the community. Numerous experiments have proved that the dust of cities, of many hospitals and of houses where consumptive persons live, or have recently lived, as well as of public places in general, invariably contain the germs of consumption. It follows that with few exceptions everyone directly confronted with these germs many times a year, or even many times a month.

Yet it is observed that the number of sufferers from consumption is relatively small, and the question may be asked: "Why do some and not others suffer?"

In the first place, the seeds of consumption germinate and grow with comparative slowness; and secondly, the resisting power of the human body constantly antagonizes their growth.

In every case of "galloping consumption" the system is first undetermined by some complicating disease; and when, for any reason, the vitality is lowered the disease may become engendered.

The growth of the bacilli is so slow that even where they have "taken root," a person of ordinary strength, with carefulness, throws the dread disease entirely aside.

In fact, many persons contract this disease and throw it off without ever having been aware of it, as is repeatedly shown by post-mortem examinations which reveal the healed scars in the lungs.

What is one to do, if, after a severe cold, a cough, fingers and nose pale and thin? Certainly not to become panic-stricken and quote the old adage regarding the incurability of consumption. Neither is it to regard his symptoms as worthy of attention.

Let him consider, like a prudent commander, how best to arrange his forces against the invading enemy.

Let him take regularly the tonics of his attending physician; care for the stomach as the ally supplying the means of warfare; strengthen the chest by prescribed and gentle exercises; avoid extremes of fatigue and late hours; conserve the natural heat of the body by the wearing of some woolen texture next the skin, and by the use of thick-soled shoes, and the chances may be equalized, will all be in favor of his permanent recovery.—Youth's Companion.

WEST.—Tom West, youngest son of Mr. Jesse West, died near Bluff Spring, last Saturday aged about 25 years.

—The first baby named Bryan.

The Tribune has been what was known as a sound-money paper, but at the same time it was intensely Democratic. Right in the midst of the excitement the editor's wife presented him with a free silver Democratic baby. A few days after it was born the national Democratic convention met to nominate a candidate for President. The baby thus far had no name. It's father was in Paducah, its mother in Benton at the time the nomination was made. In a few minutes after the wires clicked the news that Bryan was nominated. Its father in Paducah said "We shall name our baby Bryan" when almost simultaneously its mother and the rest of the family said "We shall call it Bryan." So it was unanimously "Bryan" and so it shall be called. This is doubtless the first baby in the United States that was named after the nominee. Bryan, who so made the nominee of the Democratic party on a free silver platform, especially one whose father was a sound-money Democrat. Now, what vile politician sinner can doubt the Democratic loyalty of the editor of the Tribune? Benton Tribune.

A Living Cussology.

A printer may have a bank and quinine and not be worth a cent; have small caps, with neither a wife or child. Others may run, he gets along faster by setting. He may make impressions without eloquence, use the eye without offending, and still tell the truth. Though others cannot stand while he stands, and do both at the same time; may use furniture and have no dwelling, may make and put away pi, yet never see or eat a pig. A hunk behind him may be a rat at the same time; may handle a shooting iron, yet know naught of cannon, gun or pistol. May lay his arm on a bed, and yet have to sleep on the floor; may use a dagger without shedding blood, and from the earth may handle stars. He may be of a rolling disposition with no desire to travel. He may have a sleep of foot and never be deformed; never lose a case with no knowledge of law or physics; be always correcting errors, but growing worse every day; have embraces, without ever having the arms of a last round him; his form may be locked up and he be free from jail, with his hands in the place of confinement. He may be surrounded with dead matter, but dwell in blissful ignorance of any disagreeable effects. His companion is the devil, and be that presence ever so aggravating, the printer may have an angelic temper and prove a strong christian warrior.—Ex

She then sent to me to see if I had anything that would help her. I sent her a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and the first dose relieved her. One of our neighbors had been sick about a week and had tried different remedies for diarrhoea, but kept getting worse. I sent him this same remedy. Only four doses of it were required to cure him. CARNegie AND HANNA.

The horrors of the bayonet charge at Cleveland in which women and children were wounded recall the war at Homestead in the July preceding the Presidential election of 1892.

In that year a wealthy manufacturing Republican, high in Republican party councils and a large contributor to Republican campaign funds, invited Republican disfigurement. Cleveland has become a center of Plutocratic influence and oppression, and Mark Hanna, wealthy manufacturer and chairman of the National Republican Executive Committee, has set together Cleveland Plutocrats, a new example of grinding the faces of labor.

—Mark Hanna is the Carnegie of 1896.—Post Dispatch.

MARRIED ON HIS DEATHBED.

A Wealthy New Yorker Weds the Girl of His Choice and Dies.

New York, July 21.—Howard R. Benedict, the son of James H. Benedict and a relative of E. C. Benedict, the banker, died this evening several hours after he had been married to Miss Margaret Lloyd, a society belle of Cincinnati and daughter of Col. Harlan Page Lloyd. The marriage was celebrated in Mr. Benedict's apartments, in the club house of the Seventh Regiment Veterans' Club, and it was there that the young man died. He was a member of the firm of Benedict Bros., bankers and brokers. On July 1 he was stricken with typhoid fever. When it became known a few days ago that Mr. Benedict's condition was critical, Miss Lloyd, who was visiting friends in Washington, was telegraphed to. She reached this city early this morning. Benedict's physicians, with one of them, in company with one of Mr. Benedict's physicians, who went to the bed of Mr. Benedict. The latter was sinking fast, and it was at his earnest request that the marriage ceremony was performed.

A Reliable Merchant.

Mr. A. W. Pyle, who has bought out the interest of his partner in the furniture store of Pyle & Renshaw, is one of the veteran business men of Hopkinsville. He has for 26 years been in the same line of business at the same stand on Main street. The public has learned to appreciate his straight forward dealings, reliability in all representations and upright-ness in selling goods, and Mr. Pyle's career has been a successful one through all these years. He manufactures a great deal of his furniture and thoroughly understands all branches of the furniture business. Some of the handsome sets ever sold in the city were made in his work shop.

As an undertaker he ranks at the head of the list. He is an embalmer of long and successful experience and makes a specialty of this difficult branch of his business.

Mr. Pyle's friends will find him at the same old stand in the Henry Block, better than ever, to give them the fullest satisfaction in all his dealings.
